Latino Studies Fall ‘16 Courses

What is Latino Studies?

Latino Studies is an interdisciplinary program based at the Institute for Latino Studies. Our curriculum helps students understand the youngest and fastest-growing population in the United States as well as issues affecting them and the nation as a whole. Latino Studies is relevant to practically every academic discipline and to careers in business, medicine, law, science and engineering. Enroll in the Latino Studies minor (15 credit hours) or a supplementary major (24 credit hours) to enhance any other major at the University.

20000 Level

- ILS 20303 Latino/a Poetry Now
  Francisco Aragon - MW 9:30-10:45
- ILS 20701 Latinos in American Society
  Alex Chavez - MW 3:30-4:45
- ILS 20704 Social Inequality & American Education
  Amy Langenkamp - MW 12:30-1:45
- ILS 20801 Latino Theology & Christian Tradition
  Timothy Matovina - MW 9:30-10:45
- ILS 20913 CBL: Once Upon a Time
  Rachel Parroquin - MW 2:00-3:15
- ILS 25911 CBL: Lang., Culture, Community
  Maria Coloma - MW 2:00-3:15

30000 Level

- ILS 30040 Landscapes of Urban Education
  Maria McKenna - MW 12:30-1:45
- ILS 30041 Latinos, Literacy and Gender in American Schooling Contexts
  Erin Lemrow - TR 3:30-4:45
- ILS 30509 Immigration Politics & Policy
  Ricardo Ramírez - TR 11:00-12:15
- ILS 33042 History of American Education
  Brian Collier - MW 8:00-9:15
- ILS 33701 CSC Mexico-U.S. Border Immersion
  Kraig Beyerlein - R 6:00-7:45

40000 Level

- ILS 40707 Intl. Migration & Human Rights
  Jorge Bustamante - Sec 1: TR 2:00-3:15,
  Sec 2: T 3:30-6:15
- ILS 40806 Between God and the Party
  Peter Casarella - MW 12:30-1:45
- ILS 40909 Border, Borderlands, Bridges
  Marisel Moreno - TR 11:00-12:15
- ILS 43103 CBL Mexican Immigration
  Karen Richman - TR 12:30-1:45
- ILS 43716 Visual Sociology
  Gilberto Cardenas - W 3:30-6:15

Please contact Dr. Karen Richman, Director of Undergraduate Studies, to enroll in the ILS Supplementary Major or Minor at krichman@nd.edu, 574-631-8146. Visit us at 250D McKenna Hall or virtually at latinostudies.nd.edu.